

FENBENDAZOLE PASTE Testimonial - SKIN CANCER Basal Cell Carcinoma on right cheek disappears after two months!! Canadian patie takes matters into his own hands and wins!

DR. WILLIAM MAKIS MD
DEC 10, 2024 · PAID

♡ 241

💬 39

🔄 29

Share

From: [Redacted]
To: makisw79@yahoo.com

Mon, Oct 28 at 10:29 a.m. ☆

Hello, Dr Makis.

I'm sure you are swamped with email but I'm hoping you'll catch this one.

I'm a long-time subscriber and appreciate the work you are doing. I've had a BCC since around Feb/March of 2024, noted by my GP in June, and I've been waiting for a dermatologist appointment since then (scheduled for mid-Nov).

After reading your emails with testimonials about Fenben and Ivm, I took matters into my own hands and started treating it with Fenben I got from Amazon. (Safeguard Paste 10%).

I've been applying a dab of the paste twice a day since Sept 25. The results were not immediate but it's picked up steam in the last 10 days or so, to the point where the scab is almost gone, leaving only some scar tissue. At first I tried covering it with a bandaid but the paste would harden somewhat, then pull the scab off with it when removing the bandaid. For the past three weeks or so I've just been applying the paste, no bandaid.

In the pics below:

Left: July 15, typical scab, which often came off, bled, repeat.

Middle: Sep 25, the day before I started treating it.

Today, Oct 28: Scab is nearly gone.

Update (Re: Testimonial: Fenbendazole is clearing up my BCC after one month)

Yahoo/04 - TES... ☆

From: [REDACTED]
To: William Makis

Fri, Dec 6 at 7:36 a.m. ☆

Hello, Dr Makis.

I went to my dermatologist appointment on in early November and -- surprise! -- he was not the least bit interested in what I had done to treat the BCC.

I agreed to have a biopsy taken, he referred me to the [REDACTED] clinic in [REDACTED], and that was that.

I'm booked for early Feb to have it removed. It took a couple of weeks for the scab to fall off after the biopsy, and this is how it looks now:

I'm still treating it once a day with Safeguard 10% Fenbendazole and it seems to still be improving. So I'm undecided about whether I need to have anything removed. I guess I'll see how it goes over the next while.

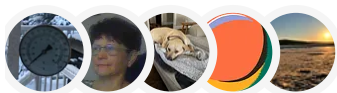

Maybe it's deep into the tissue despite having improved the surface cells. No idea.

My Take...

Skin Cancer Treatments:

- Ivermectin paste
- CBD Oil
- Fenbendazole Paste (this is new for me!)

I always say, patients who take matters into their hands do much better!

241 Likes · 29 Restacks

Discussion about this post

Comments

Restacks

Write a comment...

Hannahlehigh Hannahlehigh 10. dec.

Thats amazing, I know someone with cancer on her nose, she should try this to clear it up, she c to a specialist for a year from now.

♡ LIKE (10)    💬 REPLY    ↗ SHARE

3 replies

Andy 10. dec.

Amazing result looks like its gone, easy for me to say but i know this has worked for family mer with breast and prostate cancers along with THC oil if your able to access it.

no harm in continued use even if it ends up being less frequent. well done and thanks for shari

♡ LIKE (9)    💬 REPLY    ↗ SHARE

37 more comments...