My wife had multiple myeloma diagnosed early May. She began your protocol of 444mg FenBen (6 days on, rest one day weekly) and liquid ivermectin 30 mg per day in August. Her numbers are now virtually perfect! Doctors don't know about this and are simply amazed at her swift recovery. 😊

God bless you and your family with deliverance from the evil that attacked you and your family as a result of your heroic work! Praying 🙏

I have questions ✓ @tensc9 · 11h

Glad to hear that! Is she also doing traditional chemo? If yes, which protocol?

Yes , at first Velcade and an immunotherapy injection weekly, 25mg Revlamide (28 on, off 7 day), and calcium treatment for blood/ bones vi IV monthly.

Now only getting immunotherapy once per month and Revimide but onl 15mg((28/7).

The protocol works very well together with chemo. This is confirmed by Dr Dagleish, famous Oncologist from Great Britain who actually developed Revlimide.

He also said to make sure your Vitamin D level is close to 100, not 50 as accepted by most doctors!

Which fenben brand are y'all using?

FenBenlabs.com directly. Don't use Amazon. They have good reliable customer service, money back guarantee, swift deliveries from multiple locations in US, around the world, good quality control-batches are 3rd party tested.

Take FenBen with Fatty Meal(eggs cooked in butter for breakfast)and she takes her liquid IVM with a glass of whole milk after dinner in evening.

Use FenBen.org for discussion board also covering vitamins and supplements

Also, why liquid Ivermectin?

Better absorbed. Also, no stomach aches since you are taking pretty high dose.

Fantastic! Is your wife still on the protocol? Wanting to get an idea of how long someone stays on it.

She will do prophylactic protocol when she's ready the rest of her life. Cancer will come back if not.

She will do FenBen 3 days per week on three consecutive days(eg , MWF) then rest remainder of the week , and IVM 20 mg three days per week, but skipping a day (ie Tuesday, Thursday, Sunday).

That's the plan.

She gets regular liver scans. If that acceptable number gets out of whack, she will fast from FenBen about a week and test again.

Hope that helps

One of the terminally ill women I know of, who only trusts our NHS, died on New Year's Eve. I don't understand why people refuse to look at this evidence and at least try it as they've got nothing to lose and everything to gain.

Thank you, Dr. Makis, for your extraordinary work. It is difficult to import ivermectin into Switzerland. Swissmedic, the equivalent of the US FDA, limits the imported amount to one month's supply but does not specify what that is. The agency has confiscated my small order, making me a criminal with a heavy fine and worse, if I ever order the substance again. We believe this is a deliberate attempt to continue to demonize ivermectin which is difficult to procure through doctors and pharmacies. Of course, the pharma industry's poisons are always readily available!
